KEY ACTIVITIES/DATES:

MISSION:

ISAF SOF TFs are to establish formalised partnering relationships with identified ANSF Partner Units (PU) IOT build Host Nation capability and extend the operational reach of friendly forces. The intent of partnering between the PUs and TFs is to accelerate the development of joint PU and ISAF SOF capabilities at all levels IOT maximise joint operational effectiveness and progress towards achievement of Transfer of Lead Security Responsibility (TLSR) to GIRoA. TF81 (NZSOF) PU is the Crisis Response Unit (CRU-ATF24) a special police unit.

SIGNIFICANCE:

TE Shadow consists of [redacted] members of NZSOF who are embedded with the CRU and provide training expertise, advice, mentoring and stewardship to the Commander, leadership group and personnel of the CRU achieved through a continuous relationship in garrison, training, and combat. Mentoring is an important component in the implementation of formal partnering. TE Shadow applies a systems based approach to its mentoring process through analyzing, designing, developing, conducting and evaluating training.

TE Shadow [redacted], located at CRU Camp (KABUL), mentors and advises CRU command and leadership, determines deficiencies in training, provides guidance and sets milestones. TE Shadow [redacted] also supports the CRU Standby Sqn on directed immediate response tasks from MOI, facilitates TF81 mission and partnering requirements, partners the CRU TE supporting TF81 missions, and monitors the detainee process.

SUMMARY:

Over the reporting period, CRU Kabul Standby Squadron (A Sqn) conducted several enabled operations with TF81 and commenced initial urban rappelling training. One of the targets in particular (CTP initiated) provided CRU with the opportunity to conduct an independent operation. This was supported by TF81 as essential for improved capability in planning, preparation and execution of joint operational effects and post operational assessments . Urban rappelling training was initiated (between missions) and will continue to run over several weeks until all of the airborne ground competencies have been achieved. The intent is to enhance airborne capability and interoperability between CRU and AIU. The next scheduled airborne training will occur on the 24 Nov 10 as part of ex airborne assault.

RESULTS:

CRU continues to fulfill its standby obligations to embark upon high risk situations and has successfully responded to a number of short notice missions with TF81 with significant results primarily DDOs [redacted]

SIGNIFICANCE:

CRU development occurs initially at recruit and entry training and the establishment of basic foundation skills, progressing on to enhanced and specialist training including the development of identified CRU instructors. The ultimate aim is the empowerment of CRU instructors and setting the conditions for the creation of a CRU Training Wing.

TE Shadow is the Embedded Training Team (ETT) located at SUROBI CRU Training Camp. Instructors mentor allocated squadrons and are tasked with setting up, conducting and evaluating training and providing reports on individual and collective competencies.

SUMMARY:

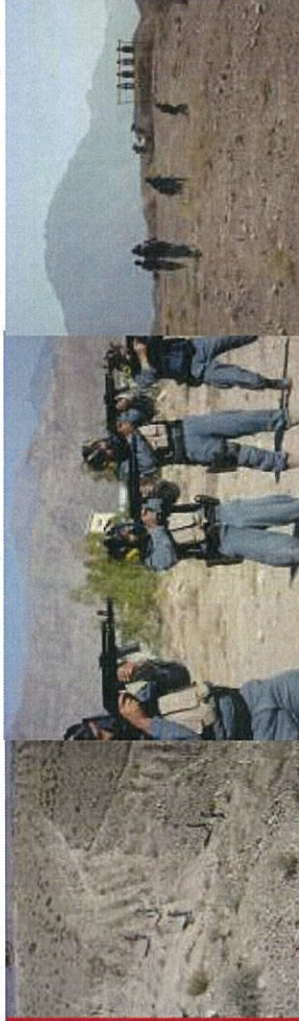

Over the period 06 - 10 Nov 2010 TE Shadow conducted training for the following elements:

- Immersion Training – Basic Patrolling including; contact drills, OP drills, ambushes, and finishing with CS gas training;
- B Sqn CRU conducted refresher training on the following weapon systems –PKM, Dushka, RPG7 and Dragunov Sniper rifle.

RESULTS:

During this period the Immersion training was assessed by a number of BHE's by day, culminating with a patrol walk-on and COI assault simulating likely missions. This phase of the Immersion Training is now complete.

B Sqn have now revised all weapon systems and have conducted live field firing summative assessment activities by day and by night. B Sqn are now ready to assume Standby duties.

In addition to the mentor role aimed at developing operational capability and effectiveness, TF81 also focuses on developing robust procedures for equipment accountability and husbandry, medical and communications proficiency and development of planning and command skills. This holistic focus contributes to the accelerated development of CRU as a sustainable Special Police Unit.

GDPSU OPERATIONS MENTOR:

Other ISAF SOF Task Forces

GDPSU J3 mentor visited [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] this week in order to confirm current pre and post operation procedures employed. This 'whistle stop' tour was also used to brief ISAF mentors on proposed procedure enhancements and to receive their feedback. Essential relationships were established with ISAF and ANSF personnel which will assist in maintaining momentum as GDPSU moves forward.

MEDICAL:

TF81 MO instructed on the ANA PA course at NMH this week. Observations from this program will be used to measure against the trained state and requirements for CRU medics.

LOGISTICS:

2 [REDACTED] Logistics courses have been recently conducted at CRU(Kabul) for both the Logistics Officers and Signals Officers. [REDACTED] instructor PSR(IC)3 provided further assistance in the establishment of property books. All CRU equipment which 'shoots, moves or communicates' is now on account. All regional Logistics Officers attended the graduation ceremony on the 6 Nov 10 to receive their Diplomas. Two of the TF81 Logistics mentors also graduated.

COMMUNICATIONS:

Members of TF81 Signals Det are providing mentoring and guidance to Signals officer PSR(Sen)2 [REDACTED] at CRU. During the reporting period the team conducted a site recon of PSR(S)1 to plan for future communications requirements. Additionally, TF81 CIS staff conducted Arc View (mapping software) training to enable PSR(IC)3 to train OPS staff in its use. TF81 also provided four laptops and set up a network in the OPS room at CRU allowing OPS staff to share data and resources including the printer and projector.
